Don't miss the Temple Israel Ner Tamid Annual Meeting!

Sunday, January 24th 9:30 a.m.

It's your synagogue, your dues, your religious school. Now add your voice! Hear what's happening and how you can make our congregation even better in the next year. Coffee and nosh will be served.

Be sure to check out our website: www.tintcleveland.org

Rabbi's Message

Believe it or not, we stand on holy ground. However, in a Cleveland winter, the holy ground is frozen. Fortunate then, that we will find warmth as we begin the miraculous saga of our ancestors' enslavement and exodus from Egypt. The protagonist, of course, will be Moses. But the book of Exodus does not open with Moses' commission by God at the burning bush. The Torah prepares us gradually for this. We learn the names of the families which accompanied Jacob to Egypt, that Joseph and all his generation had died, and that a new Pharaoh arose in Egypt who did not know Joseph.

The portion continues with the unusual circumstances surrounding Moses' birth, being cast afloat in a basket by his sister Miriam, his upbringing, his gallant acts in defense of justice, his action in solidarity with his oppressed brethren, and his flight to the land Midian. In Midian he meets the daughters of Jethro, helps them water their flocks, and marries Zipporah.

At long last, in chapter 3, Moses arrives at the burning bush. An angel of the Lord appeared to him in a blazing fire out of the bush. He gazed, and there was a bush all aflame, yet the bush was not consumed. God called to him out of the midst of the burning bush. "Moses, Moses!" Moses replied, "Hineni!" "Here I am!" Then God said, "Do not come closer. Remove your sandals from your feet, for the place on which you stand is holy ground."

Why remove your sandals? Rabbi Gunther Plaut suggests that one must be as clean as possible when in the presence of God, and since shoes accumulate dirt, they must be removed. Another interpretation is that one should lower one's status in front of God in a gesture of self-abnegation.

Yet another interpretation teaches that by removing the sandals which he wore everyday and standing in his bare feet, Moses symbolically abandoned his routine personality and transcended to a higher level of awareness. This teaches, that Godliness is not only in some far off place, but is in the here and now where each person stands. If we attempt to turn our ordinary place into a meeting place with God, it too can become holy ground, like the ground upon which Moses stood.

How do we turn our place on earth to a meeting place with God? As Jews we do this through mitzvot, through commandments -- our day-to-day actions through which we respond to day-to-day realities. By our actions holy ground is within our grasp, if only we would recognize our capabilities and reach out.

Let me close with one of my favorite rabbinic student stories: At the Hebrew Union College, there was a fine prospective student. The student was well prepared to answer the committee's questions concerning Judaica. The candidate's diligent studies in Bible and Rabbinics had paid off. Then, Rabbi Abraham Joshua Heschel z'l, one of the members of the committee, softly asked the following question. "Suppose you were to go for a week to a secluded desert island. What would you take along with you?" The student looked piously at Heschel and answered: "A Bible." After a pause, Heschel continued: "And nothing else?" The candidate thought and said: "Oh yes, and a tractate of Talmud!" But Heschel pressed on, "And nothing else?" The candidate, lost in thought, then came up triumphantly with: "Yes, of course, I would take a Siddur, prayer book, for my daily prayers." At this point Heschel looked at the candidate kindly and said: "All the things you mentioned, are of course necessary, but above all, I think that you must not forget to take along a few sandwiches and a sweater."

While aspiring to rise to the heavens of piety and Godliness, we must not forget the ground upon which we stand. It is ground, not heaven, and a few sandwiches and a sweater are always needed. Through our actions we can make our ordinary ground into "holy ground."

TINT Mission Statement

Temple Israel Ner Tamid is predicated on the belief that the creation and establishment of a congregation dedicated to the needs of Jewish people provides the environment necessary for the accomplishment of our purposes: the study, understanding and practice of Liberal Judaism warm to tradition amid an atmosphere of friendship and fellowship so that each individual member can develop the desire and have the ability to lead a meaningful Jewish life. We are dedicated to promoting and maintaining family involvement in a Jewish life through total commitment to family participation.

If you would like to sponsor an oneg or have bima flowers for any special occasion, such as a birthday or anniversary, please call the temple office at 440-473-5120.

WELCOME NEW MEMBERS!

In December, our congregation was enriched by the addition of the following new members:
Harvey & Judy Wiseberg,
Svetlana & Stas Tsiperson and
Kimberly LeBois and Jason Ginsberg.

Allow me to express gratitude to all of those who labor to make the ground at Temple Israel Ner Tamid into "holy ground." Thank you to our officers, board members, religious school teachers, volunteers, congregants, temple administrator and maintenance staff. The Annual Meeting is an excellent opportunity to hear the state of our congregation and to voice your support, questions and/or concerns. Each member is cordially invited to attend on Sunday morning, January 24. We will begin after the religious school students are dismissed to their classes: 9:15 a.m. Continental Breakfast; 9:30 a.m. Annual Meeting. The meeting will conclude before 11:30 a.m.

Also, please read this TINT IsraeLight carefully, it is filled with announcements, ideas and requests for your active participation at services, in tzedakah, adult education, socializing, fundraising and interfaith activities.

God, give us the courage to sanctify Your name through mitzvot. Then, we will be partners with You in the ongoing work of creation -- the creation of "holy ground."

When 4 year old Sam opened the family bible, something fell out of it. He picked up the object and looked at it. It was old leaf that had been pressed between the pages. "Mummy, look what I found," he said. "What have you found, bubbeleh?" she asked. Sam whispered, "I think it's Adam's underwear."

Q: How many congregants does it take to change a light bulb in a synagogue?

A: CHANGE? You want we should CHANGE the light bulb? My grandmother donated that light bulb!!!

A Note from
Rabbi Matt

Christians United For Israel (CUFI)
Program to Honor Israel
Sunday, January 17, 2010 * 3:00-5:00 p.m.
Beachwood High School

As a rabbi, and a supporter of Israel, I plan to attend the CUFI program. It is free and open to people from all walks of life. This is a first-time event in Cleveland, although many “nights to honor Israel” have been held throughout the country over the past decade. Our congregant, Max Edelman will be one of the featured speakers. Max and I agree that, as a practical consideration, it is good to seek out supporters of Israel.

CUFI has modeled itself after AIPAC -- America Israel Public Affairs Committee -- in its advocacy efforts on behalf of Israel. It is an organization of religious Christians who want to show their support of Israel. It is not an attempt at conversion. I have a close colleague in California who has participated in CUFI programs and has told me his interactions have been positive ones.

Last year, a woman in Cleveland emailed me a link for CUFI. I watched it, was amazed and humored, and kept it in the back of my mind. However, last summer, my thinking was significantly affected by the work of author, Zev Chafets. He grew up a Jewish kid in Pontiac, Michigan, and moved to Israel in 1967. He has written a wide variety of books and spends much of his time in New York City. When he researched his 2007 book, his Jewish friends in New York thought he had lost his mind. And he realized that his Jewish friends had never met, nor had they ever broken bread with, nor had a serious discussion with, the subjects of his research.

Chafets' 2007 book is titled, A Match Made In Heaven: American Jews, Christian Zionists, and One Man's Exploration of the Weird and Wonderful Judeo-Evangelical Alliance. I highly recommend it to you.

Chafets points out, a large number of Jews brush-off Christian fundamentalist support because of profound misunderstandings of fundamentalist Christianity.

(1) For those among us who say, “oh, they only love us to convert us, so it will bring about the second coming of Jesus” Chafetz points out, Christianity teaches you cannot push the time of the second coming... it is God's time, not human time. There is nothing a person can do to push the time of Jesus' return. They don't only love us and want us to move to Israel to hasten the second coming. They actually love us...the people of the book...God's chosen people (Exodus 19:6, also Genesis 12:3 ).

So, if they only love us until their awaited second coming... and it's God's time? It's good enough for me. Why not accept their love and support?

(2) There are Jews who say... okay, well I'm not quite sure why they love us, but I don't trust them. Which, of course, is a good, skeptical answer...as far as it goes. Here is some additional, good information. There are people in the world, anti-Semites and others, who hate us, really hate us...are jealous of us...want us exterminated...and deep down we're not exactly sure why they hate us so much, but it is true... they hate us. We'd like them to like us, but they don't...no matter what we say and do...we try to help them, but they still hate us. So why not accept love from people who profess to love us, even if we can't entirely understand why they love us?

To make it personal, how many of you are married, or have children, or have parents, or have siblings, or have relatives? Do you always understand why they love you? Or do you always understand why you love them? Even if you don't entirely understand, isn't it smart to accept their love in as much as you can?

(3) Chafets' third point says that if they love us only for God's time, and even if we don't exactly understand their love, what does it say about us? Many of us don't accept their support of Israel because we disagree with them on a variety of social issues?

However, in so many areas of life, we can agree to agree when and where we can, and we can agree to disagree when and where we do. What does it say about our ability to have relationships? Is there anyone with whom you agree 100% of the time? You probably don't even agree with yourself 100% of time. If you can have a relationship with someone with whom you agree sometimes — and disagree sometimes — the same should be true of Jews, and we should open ourselves to fundamentalist Christians' support for Israel, even though we will differ on a variety of social issues. But, we're not talking about the variety of social issues here. We're talking about the actual life of the State of Israel.

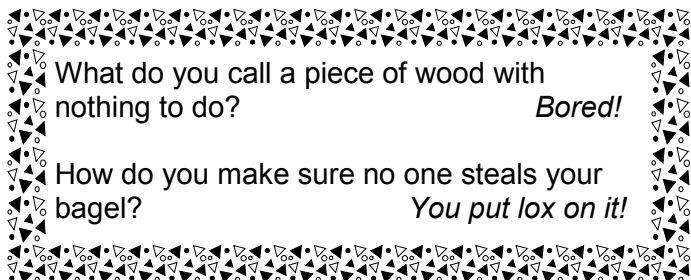

You know, President Ahmadenajhd of Iran said it again on Erev Rosh Hashanah (9/18/09). He reiterated that Israel will not exist for much longer. We need to take his words seriously. We Jews have learned, through painful experience, that just because you think someone is a madman and his ramblings seem crazy, it does not mean he isn't serious. If he gets the chance, if Iran acquires nuclear weapons, their leadership will try to destroy Israel and us.

I hope you will join the Edelmans, Eisenbergs and others, as we gather to support Israel with Christians who are like-minded.

MAKE A PURIM MASK!

1. Cut out the mask and paste it onto heavier paper. Ask Mom or Dad to increase the size on your printer if necessary.
1. Color the mask. Add beads, glitter or feathers if you like.
2. Knot 2 pieces of ribbon, one at each black dot.
3. Tie on your mask and get ready for Purim!

Shabbat Shirah - Sabbath of Song

Friday, February 5th ♦ 7:30 p.m.

When the children of Israel crossed the Sea of Reeds and escaped Pharaoh's chariots, they sang joyfully to their Redeemer. In commemoration thereof, Jews throughout the world observe Shabbat Shirah, the Sabbath of Song with special melodies.

This year, we will have a Folk Rock Shabbat Shirah, Friday evening, February 5, 2010. Our Chazzanit Rachel Eisenberg will focus on the NFTY folk tunes of the 1970s. She will be joined by her brother, Rabbi Matt, to play guitar and sing. Join us for what promises to be, an evening of inspired and inspiring Jewish music.

Friday the 5th, will also be our monthly Potluck Oneg. Please bring homemade or purchased, goodies to be shared after services.
